BY MR. SNODGRASS.

O, the world is full of sadness. Sadness that to us doth seem the more; Because we did not make the most of gladness

Yes, the world is full of sighing, Sighing that reverberates along The pathway of each one of us still crying. How can we turn from weeping unto song?

True, hearts of youth are laughing.
Laughing still, because they know no pain.
Ah, but the winter of old age is coming.
Coming, fast to blight youth's golden grain.
Let us quickly gather in the harvest.
Harvest that is strewn along the way,
Before the chilling blast of age's winter;
Winter that precedes our life's decay.

Howe'er, let us not forget the spring-time, flowers. Burst into a radiant life again;

Springtime in a land that knows no pain, Where earth's drooping, parched and withered

Where the task of all is praise and singing. Where the task of all is praise and singing. Singing unto One whose blood was spilled; And like sweetest silver chime-bells ringing, Ringing, of man's destiny fulfilled.

The Hitch in the Treasureship. The newly elected County Treasurer, James T. Clark, qualified last Tuesday, but, owing to the opinion of the present incumbent, Treasurer Frank Parlett, based upon the law's construction, he cannot assume the duties of the office until the 1st of next June. Treasurer Parlett claims that he entered into bond for the collection of the county taxes for the year 1899, the fiscal year having begun on the 1st of last June. Mr. Clark is of the opinion, however, that he must qualify and assume the duties of the office within 30 days after the receipt of his commission. Treasurer-Elect Clark has formally notified Treasurer Parlett to hand over the office, but the latter refused to do so. There has nothing developed yet indicating any legal contest over the matter, and it is generally opined that an amicable adjustment will be arrived at. The friends of both of the parties are of the opinion that the simplest and in the end the most satisfactory way of settling the difficulty would be for Mr. Clark to claim the office by right and allow Mr. Parlett to occupy the office to finish up his work of collecting the levy of 1899, as he is required by the law, and have the law so amended that the new incumbent's term will begin on June 1st. This would allow Mr. Clark his full term and Mr. Parlett would be compensated for the work he has yet on hand. Others are of the opinion, in justice to both parties Mr. Clark should take full possession of the office and Mr. Parlett be allowed compensation for the work he has yet to perform by legislative enactment if necessary. The law is very defective and should be over-

The county commissioners must recognize one or the other as treasurer, and on Tuesday held their action under advisement, having referred the matter to their counsel for his consideration.

Debate on Trusts.

A reception was given at Rock Hil College Tuesday afternoon by the members of the Azarias Literary Union, the feature being a debate on the question, "Resolved, That all trusts and combinations intended to monopolize industries should be abolished.'

The college gymnasium hall, in which the reception was held, was filled with visitors, a large proportion of whom were ladies. Thomas R. Wise, of the class of 1900, acted as chairman of the debate. Those speaking for the affirmative side were: Gains W. Billups, Louis J. Davis and William R. Owings. The orators for the negative were: John J. McCool, Thomas A. Green and N. Franklin Neer. The judges appointed to determine the merits of the argument were Ex-Senator John G. Rogers, John F. Mc-Mullen, Rev. Joseph Hild, State's Attorney Martin F. Burke, J. Malcolm Dorsey, Rev. Peter Tarro and J. F. Melvin. The question was decided in the negative. The speeches were interspersed with music by the college orchestra. The officers of the Azarias Literary Union are Thomas R. Wise, president; William R. Owings, vice-president; Gains W. Billups, secretary.

Caulk, and Frank Collier, on the the largest tipping the scales at 5471 lbs., night of the 14th of October last, has been removed to Howard county. The vessel was burned, it is believed, to conceal the murder. Wyatt has entered the plea that he was too drunk to commit murder in the first degree. In rebuttal of this plea the State will produce testimony to show that Wyatt made, previous to the murders, such inquiries about the running of the steamboats and about Capt. Caulk that showed he was on the track of Capt. Caulk's movements, and that the murder was a deliberately planned affair. Such is the present as-

A New Avenue Wanted,

The citizens of Howard county, as well as those residing in Ellicott City, should interest themselves in a much needed avenue from the Columbia Pike, in Ellicott City, to the New Cut Road, at a point near the Rock Hill College grounds. The avenue would wind around the foot of Quaker Hill and cross Tiber run. It would be of immense convenience to farmers coming to Ellicott City with teams, besides affording more room in a general way to the public. Estimates as to the cost should be obtained.

Some History Concerning an Old Colonial House. Mr. George Wolfe and Mr. Harry Linda made a contract with Mrs. Matthias Hammond for putting a roof on the old "Burleigh" Mansion, the old home of the late Col. Matthias Hammond, whose large landed estates at one time extended from the Clarksville to the Frederick pikes. The re-roofing of this interesting habitat has revived recollections of the Hammond family as well as the building itself. The late Col. Hammond was one of the officers of the famous militia command known as "Carroll's Black Horse Troop." He was a most skillful swordsman and many interesting anecdotes have been told of his friendly passages at arms with the last signer of the Declaration of Independence, in which it is said Col. Hammond rarely, if ever, came off second best. The Colonel was a man of fine educational attainments, a through linguist, and a writer of considerable ability, and his old home, "Burleigh," has been in his family for over a hundred years, the bricks having been brought Mr. Thomas Burke, manager for the from England, and the carving in the B. and O. railroad at Brunswick, and house was all by hand. Col. Hammond was of English descent, was the seventh descendant direct, of Major-General the great nephew of Rev. Henry Hammond, D. D., Chaplain to Charles First, of England, and great-grand-son of John Hammond, M. D., physician to James First. Major-General Hammond died in Frederick Graff Whelan, on St. Paul 1707. Burglary in Laurel.

Three strange colored men made systematic attempt at wholesale burglary a Laurel on the night of the 8th inst. The business houses of Messrs. C. F. Shaffer, H. C. Frost and George E. French and the office of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad were broken into, but very little has been missed from any of the places, the object of the burglars apparently being to secure money, and falling to find that they decamped, taking very little with them. Several pairs of gloves were missed from the store of Mr. H. C. Frost and they aided in the capture of one of the miscreants.

The local police were notified, and they communicated with the officers between Laurel and Washington. About eight o'clock next morning Constable Harrison of Bladensburg, saw a colored man coming down the road with a new pair of gloves on and several pairs protruding from his pockets. His suspicions were aroused, and he arrested the man, who made a full confession, implicating two other unknown colored men. He stated he had met them near Laurel during the day and they planned to make a "swoop" on the town. The captured burglar gave his name as Jones, and stated he was from North Carolina, when taken before Justice of the Peace William H. Robey, who heard the charges against him, and committed him to jail in default of bail for the action of the grand jury at the next term of Prince George's county court, which meets the first Monday in April next.
